

Chapter 12 Quiz

1. Choose any old typeface on your hard disk and set really cool defaults headlines (html text) with it.
2. Let the text stretch the entire width of the web page.
3. Set lots of text in all caps so people will be sure to see it.
4. Put red text on an orange background because the subtle yet “dazzling” color combination looks artsy.
5. Make the type really larger so people won’t miss it.
6. In the code, specify that none of the links should be underlined.
7. Make the main text smaller than the visitor’s default so it will look really small and trendy.
8. Use a background even if the type can’t be read because it’s more important for visitors to see that you know how to make cool backgrounds. Never
9. Use italic on the entire web page because it is pretty and give an extra flair.
10. Use really grungy typefaces, not only in your buttons and graphic headlines, but throughout the entire text because who cares if people read it or not- you’re going for a contemporary “look” on this site. Never
11. Make some text very, very small, but set it in all caps to compensate for the small size.
